

January 4, 2016
For Immediate Release

AST Announces New CAO

I am pleased to announce the appointment of Ted Vaughan as AST's next Chief Administrative Officer, effective February 1, 2016.

Ted is a great fit for this role and we are blessed to have him joining us. For the past four years, Ted has served as Director, Universities and Colleges with the Nova Scotia Department of Labour & Advanced Education. Ted knows AST well and has a strong appreciation for the challenges and opportunities facing us. He brings a passion for our mission and has a strong sense of optimism and commitment concerning our strategic direction. Ted's integrity and strong sense of values are well aligned with our culture and purpose.

Ted's 18 years of senior management experience with government has largely been spent in the education and higher education sectors. He has managed significant budgets and carried out analyses of universities' financial positions. Ted has strategic and hands-on experience with key functions of our CAO position including facilities management, information technology, and human resources.

Please join me in congratulating and welcoming Ted Vaughan to AST.

The Rev. Neale Bennet
President, Atlantic School of Theology

-30-

Contact:
Dawn Robertson
Communications and Alumni Relations Manager
Atlantic School of Theology
902-496-7943
advancement@astheology.ns.ca / www.astheology.ns.ca